DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed December 18, 2008 has been entered.

Claims 1, 5, 6 and 7 are currently amended.

Claims 9-11 are cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. Claims 1 and 6, and claims 2-5, 7 and 8 dependent thereon, are indefinite in the recitation of "without a significant increase in long chain fatty acid components of seed oil", given that it is unclear what would constitute an increase in long chain fatty acid components that would not be significant, and it is unclear if this increase is intended to be compared with the level of long chain fatty acids and the specification fails to set forth the metes and bounds of this term.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1-4 and 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Jaworski et al (US Patent 6,307,128) for the reasons set forth in the last office action.
6. Applicants' arguments filed December 18, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicants assert that Jaworski only teaches expression of the EL2 sequence in yeast and that they do not actually teach production of a transgenic plant comprising this sequence, and that the claims now further characterize the claimed plant as having "a high oil phenotype without a significant increase in long chain fatty acid components of seed oil relative to non-transgenic control plants". Applicants also argue that the Declaration of Wagner provides data describing the levels of each fatty acid as a percentage of the total fatty acid content and shows that there was no significant change in relative proportion of LCFA components in the transgenic plants relative to the control plants, while applicants assert the yeast data provided by Jaworski et al shows an altered profile in the yeast data, which teaches away from the claimed invention.
7. The Examiner maintains that Jaworski et al teach a plant transformed with SEQ ID NO: 2 in the disclosure of producing such a plant. While the fatty acid profile of said plant is not disclosed, the same fatty acid profile would be inherent in a plant transformed with the same sequence, and the recitation of "a high oil phenotype without a significant increase in long chain fatty acid components of seed oil relative to non-transgenic control plants" is not sufficiently definite to distinguish the claimed plant from the plant taught by Jaworski et al.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

10. Claims 1-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Jaworski et al (US Patent 6,307,128 in IDS of 7/31/06) as stated in the last office action.

11. Applicants' arguments filed December 18, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicants argue that the data from yeast taught by Jaworski et al teaches away from the claims, given that the claims recite that oil content is increased without a significant increase in the proportion of long chain fatty acids components of seed oil. The Examiner maintains that the language of the claims is indefinite, as set forth in the rejection under 35 USC 112, 2nd paragraph, as stated above, and that the production of plants transformed with SEQ ID NO: 2 taught by Jaworski et al is the same as that claimed.

Conclusion

12. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

No claims are allowed.
